

Kindroid Personas

Expanding Your Chat Experience

By Genevieve

What Are Personas?

Personas allow users to save and switch between different user settings on the fly.

A persona consists of:

- User name
- User gender
- User backstory
- User avatar

Personas enhance immersion, roleplay, and customization.

Setting Up a Persona

Navigate to Home Menu → General → My Profile & Personas → My Personas

Set up user settings first,
THEN save them as a persona.

Editing: Save changes and overwrite the old persona slot.

Limit: Users can create up to 100 personas.

NOTE: Every time you make a change to your user profile you need to overwrite!

Switching Personas in Chat

Switch personas in solo chats and voice calls:

Solo:

Click "Chatting as <Persona Name>"

Voice:

In voice calls, use
"Calling as <Persona Name>"

NOTE: The persona indicator only appears if at least one persona is created.

Solo Chat vs. Group Chat Behavior

They are different!

Single-User Chats (1-on-1 Conversations & Voice Calls)

Persona changes apply retroactively to entire chat history.

Example: If you sent messages as "Monique", then switch to "Carlos", past messages will update and appear as from Carlos.

LTM and Solo Personas

A word of caution! Long Term Memories (LTM) are stored under the name the user is wearing at the time of the event.

This means recall might not be as consistent as it would be if you maintained a steady persona while speaking to a particular kin.

If you want your kin to maintain memory of you at all times as a single entity with different traits (different personas) then you can give your personas the same name and differentiate between them by using different user avatar photos. This way your kin will always know you as "USER" regardless of which persona you wear.

Group Chat Differences

Persona changes do NOT affect past messages.

Messages are permanently attributed to the persona active when they were sent.

Example: Messages sent as "Aisha" stay as Aisha, even if you switch to Emily and send a new message.

What does that mean?

Group chats allow seamless persona switching for dynamic roleplaying.

Users can create the illusion of multiple participants by switching personas.

Example:

- Start a conversation as "Freida".
- Switch to "Clyde" and reply in character as Clyde.
- The Kins recognize Freida and Clyde as separate individuals.
- REMEMBER: A scenario counts as a "group chat" and follows GC persona rules!

TIP: Group chats have a 10-Kindroid participant limit, but switching personas allows a user to control multiple characters beyond this limit.

Locking a Persona to a Kindroid

In some cases you may want to always interact with a specific Kin using a dedicated persona.
This is now possible!

Located in General → Tied User Persona.

Allows you to automatically switch to a specific persona when selecting a Kindroid.

Ensures consistency in interactions by aligning your persona with the chosen Kindroid.

Ideal for maintaining distinct dynamics with different Kindroids without manual switching.

Why Use Personas?

- Customization: Tailor user interactions to fit different moods, scenarios, or social settings.
- Storytelling & Roleplay: Act out conversations with multiple characters.
- Immersion: Enhance group chat dynamics with unique identities.
- Seamless Switching: Move between personas without disrupting the experience.
- Easier selfies! Swapping between personas lets you create couples selfies with different users without having to swap out the avatar image and description every time!
